Soviet Premier Flying Toward Red Viet Nam

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flew toward Hanoi today where he is expected to discuss Soviet military aid to Communist North Viet Nam, which nourishes the Viet Cong in the fight against the Saigon government to the south.

He planned to stop in Peking on his way to the North Vietnamese capital and again on his trip back to Moscow. It will be the first visit to Red China by a Soviet premier since Nikita S. Khrushchev stopped there in 1959 on his way back from talks with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in the United States.

The Chinese Embassy in Moscow boycotted Kosygin's airport departure. Under normal diplomatic protocol the Chinese envoys would be expected to see him off. His trip to North Viet Nam has strong overtones of a challenge to Peking's influence in Hanoi.

Kosygin's departure came shortly after President Johnson disclosed in Washington that the new Soviet leaders would welcome his visit to the Soviet Union and are likely to visit the United States themselves.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party saw Kosygin off at the airport, indicating the importance of the mission. Others in the farewell party included Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky.

On the plane with Kosygin were experts on military aid and on foreign contacts.

North Viet Nam has been supporting China in the Soviet-Chinese dispute. The Soviet Union has promised North Viet Nam "the necessary assistance" in case of an American attack.

Diplomatic observers here regard possible Soviet military assistance for North Viet Nam as more of an effort to buy moderating influence in Hanoi rather than irritate the situation there.

Soviet officials said Kosygin's group will spend Friday night in Peking, arrive in Hanoi Saturday for a four-day visit. It was not clear where the group will spend tonight.

No date for the end of the visit was announced.

Interesting Primary Shaping Up For Dems; Five Republicans File

There will be a lively primary election in Circleville come May 4. But it will be for Democrats only.

Filing of petitions by candidates for the primary closed yesterday at the Board of Elections and all contested races involve Democrats. Consequently, there will be no GOP primary, although five Republicans filed petitions and will be on the ballot in November.

Records disclosed that 22 candidates from both parties had filed petitions prior to yesterday's closing time at the Board of Elections office.

The Democratic races will be for president of Circleville Council, Second Ward councilman, Third Ward councilman and Fourth Ward councilman.

• • •

BY THE time November rolls around, however, a Republican and a Democrat will be battling for the offices of mayor and First Ward councilman. Three Democrats and a Republican will fight for three council-at-large posts to be filled.

Sterling M. Lamb, Knollwood Village stands unopposed on the ballot for another term as judge of Circleville Municipal Court. The same goes for Kenneth M. Robbins-(R), 709 N. Pickaway St., for city solicitor, and Everett P. Stocklen-(D), 146 E. High St., for another term as city treasurer.

Circleville residents seeking Democratic nominations in May are:

President of Council — W. Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St., and Sheldon C. Winner, 1005 Mulberry Road. Clifton i seeking another term at the post. Winner is a newcomer to politics.

Clifton, manager of Clifton Auto Parts Inc., E. High St., is a past president of Kiwanis Club and Circleville General PTA. He and his wife, Alice, have seven children.

Winner, owner and operator of Circle Auto Parts on S. Court St., is a native of Pickaway County. He has resided in Circleville since 1938. He and his wife have three children.

Three Democrats seeking the Second Ward seat on city council are John W. Jenkins, 666 E. Mound St.; Richard C. Spires, 321 S. Washington St.; and Loring E. Valentine, 410 E. Mound St.

The incumbent, Jenkins, was first appointed to council in 1958 to fill a vacancy created when William Wyatt resigned He is employed by the J. W. Eshelman and Sons plant He is a graduate of Circleville High School and a member of several local civic organizations. He is a World War II veteran.

Spires, a newcome to politics, is a former pro of the Pickaway Country Club. A native of Lancaster, he has lived in Circleville for 11 years and is the local dealer for two Columbus newspapers. He and his wife, Sue, have three children and they are members of St. Joseph's Church. Spires belongs to several golf organizations, including the VA Swing Club, Chillicothe, Golf Course Superintendents Assn. of America and the Pickaway Country Club.

Valentine, a native Pickaway Countian, is a former owner and operator of the Blue Ribbon Dairy, a farmer, and one-t owner of Valentine's Candy Shop. He owned the dairy fo 17 years and operated the candy shop for about seven years His wife, Gladys, operates a beauty salon at their home. They have four children and are members of the Chuch of the Brethren.

Two new politicians are vieing for nomination as Third Ward councilman. They are Charles L. Tomlinson Jr., 627 S. Court St., and Robert W. Turner, 133 W. Mound St.

Tomlinson, a former Circleville policeman, is in the welding and sheet metal business. He is a member of the Knights of Pythias. His wife, Barbara, has alocal beacty shop. They have two sons.

Turner, 29, is a native of Pickaway County and is employed as a draftsman designer. He is a CHS graduate and attended Ohio University. He is currently serving as president of the Circleville Art League, is a member of the First Methodist Church where he teaches Sunday School and is a member of the official board of the church. He and his wife, Marian, have two children.

The Fourth Ward council seat has the most candidates for the job — three Democrats and a Republican, Robert J. Good, 137 Walnut St. Good is assured of theGOP nomination since he has no opposition.

The Democrats are incum-

All Citizens To Get Them, President Vows

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, with direct allusion to Negro efforts to register in Alabama, urged all Americans today to join with him in expressing concern over the loss of any citizen's right to vote.

In a hurriedly anonunced news conference, the President said it is essential to the freedom of the nation that voting rights are secured for all citizens.

"I intend to see that right is secured," he said.

Johnson's session with reporters was conducted before live radio and television at the White House. It was his first such preannounced news session since last July 24.

At the outset, Johnson read a statement on the farm message he sent to Congress today. He said it made clear the farmer and the agricultural community are still most important in the nation's life.

He emphasized, too, that the health of the farm segment of the national economy is important to all Americans.

"Depressions and recessions are usually farm-led and farm-fed," he said.

And, at another point, the President asserted that food today is our best bargain.

Continuing his volunteered remarks, the President urged that Congress leave him freedom to deal with the question of sales of surplus farm commodities to the United Arab Republic. The House voted a ban on such sales but the Senate Wednesday passed a milder version.

On possible exchange of visits with Soviet leaders, Johnson said he had no additional information to offer other than what he said Wednesday night —that he is very hopeful of visiting the Soviet Union this year. He said discussons had taken place between Russians and Americans, but that no details will be made public until something more tangible is established.

Continued Farm Price Supports Asked by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Congress today that farm price support programs should be continued and improved. He called for attention to other measures aimed at parity of opportunity for rural Americans.

In a special message, Johnson said the price programs, initiated 30 years ago in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt have helped create a commercially successful agriculture.

And over the past four years, he said, the price support programs has raised and sustained net farm income at an annual level of nearly a billion dollars above 1960.

"Few activities so dramatically indicate the value to farmers of good programs well-administered," Johnson wrote. "Yet the consumer is the major beneficiary of farm progess. While retail food prices have risen in recent years, the prices of what the farmer sells have actually declined 15 per cent since 1947-1949."

This, Johnson said, is what is needed to have parity of opportunity for rural Americans:

1. National economic prosperity to increase ther employment opportunities.

2. Full access to education, training, and health services to expand their earning power.

3. Economic development of smaller and medium-size communities to insure a healthy economic base for rural America.

In recommending that present price support programs now in effect for major farm commodities be continued and improved, Johnson wrote:

"These programs can continue to serve our objectives of increased freedom of operation, a steady improvement of income, a greater eliance on market forces, and lower govenment costs."

Specifically Johnson advised Congress:

Wheat and feed grains — Voluntary feed grain and wheat programs should be extended. Specific recommendations will be submitted to Congress aimed to permit the operation of these programs to be simplified and make it possible for additonal crops, particularly soy beans, to be grown as needed on acreage diverted from grains. Authority of the secretary of agriculture to set price support levels and to adjust other pogram features as conditions may require should be continued.

Cotton — The cotton program of 1964 should also be extended and improved and it is essential that cotton be competitive with other fibers and in world markets. "At the same time we must adopt measures to reduce the cost of this program and the level of stocks," Johnson said. "Specific amendments to current legislation will be suggested to accomplish these objectives."

Tobacco — The tobacco program must be reappraised this year. "Yield increases, higher government costs, deterioration of quality and loss of foreign markets have weakened what has been a highly successful program," Johnson said. "Legislation is needed to authorize production and marketing limits on an acreage-poundage basis. Consideration should also be given to revision in our programs which will make American tobacco more competitive in world markets."

Rice — Consideration should be given to amending the rice program to support market prices at competitive world levels, and to provide additional

Commandoes Shell Cuban Oil Depot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Anti-Castro commandoes shelled an important Cuba oil depot Tuesday and claim to have caused heavy damage.

The Cuban government said damage was minor.

A gunboat bombarded the installation at Casilda, near Trinidad, with 57mm cannon and machine-gun fire, according to a Cuban armed forces communique broadcast by Havana Radio.

Militia repelled the boat and the only damage was to homes hit by shells, the Cuban government said.

Revolutionary Recovery Movement claimed it carried out the attack.

Ohio Sub-Zero Readings Continue; Logan Has -19

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The village of Valley Crossing in Franklin County and Cincinnati had lows of 19 degrees below zero and Waldo in Marion County registered 9 degrees below to make them among the coldest spots in Ohio early today, the U. S. Weather Bureau reports.

Some areas around Delaware and Lockbourne Air Force Base registered 8 degees below, and there were even lower readings recorded unofficially.

One of the latter was in Logan where a highway garage thermometer plunged to a minus 19. A spokesman for the Logan Daily News denied the meter was of the "Mail Pouch" variety, but is an "official Weather Bureau" instrument. He explained, however, tnat "since it is not an official Weather Bureau station," Logan does not get the dubious credit of being the real icebox of the state.

The temperature in International Falls, Minn., has risen above zero only once in the last week. Chicago went through its seventh consecutive day of subzero weather.

Snow fell from the northern Rockies to eastern Washington and south and east of the Great Lakes. Rain dampened southern Texas and western Washington.

Western New York State was laced by high winds. Watertown which received seven inches of new snow, closed schools for the first time this year. More than 50 motorists were stranded in Adams, south of Watertown.

But the cold didn't stop about 2,000 Marines from Camp Lejeune, N.C., who started a month-long winter exercise at Camp Drum near Watertown.

Four deaths related to the weather were reported in Kentucky. Much of the state was still covered by snow, but all main roads were open. Schools in 20 or more counties were closed again today.

The lowest temperature recorded in Kentucky was 14 below in Somerset. Other readings were —9 in Whitesburg, —4 in Covington, —3 in Bowling Green and —1 in Corbin.

The cold siege took its seventh life in Tennessee Wednesday when a Nashville woman was found frozen to death in her yard.

An elderly couple was found frozen to death in a room of their Elwood, Ind., home.

Residents in Calumet, Mich., took the 200 inches of snow which has fallen this winter philosophically. "It's just as nice here as it is in the summer, except it's colder," one resident noted.

Georgetown Cop Is Shot; 6 Men Held

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (AP)— Six men were being questioned today in connection with the shooting earlier today of Georgetown policeman Cyril B. Heaton, 48.

Brown County Sheriff William E. Utter said two 23 - year-old men were picked up at Ripley and were in custody here.

Police in Cincinnati said they were questioning two men, and authorities in Hamilton also said they have two men in custody.

No names were released pending further investigation.

Heaton was shot at least three times and also beaten severely on the head when he surprised burglars at the Cahall farm implement store on U. S. 68 on the south edge of Georgetown shortly after midnight.

He was shot in each arm and once in the chest with a .32 caliber pistol, Sheriff Utter said. He was in critical condition in Brown County Hospital here.

Utter said the burglars also ripped the wires off the radio in the police cruiser.

Heaton, however, was able to drive himself three tenths of a mile to the Brown county hospital.

Heaton was on a routine patrol check when he saw two men in the Cahall store. The sheriff's office said the men had several chain saws in their car and evidently were preparing to take other items.

DeGaulle Asks 5-Power Talks

Red China Placed On French List

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle today proposed a five-power conference, including Communist China, to examine and perhaps revise the United Nations charter.

He also called for a new world monetary system founded on something more than the dollar and pound sterling.

The French president told his semiannual news conference France is making this proposal to bring the U.N. charter up to date.

He said such a conference should be held in Geneva. He mentioned the Soviet Union, Britain, France, the United States and China as participants.

These — making allowances for the difference of policy regarding China — are the five nations which hold permanent seats on the U.N. Security Council. They also were the five inviting powers to the conference in San Francisco 20 years ago which drafted and adopted the original charter.

He said the present monetary system, which relies chiefly on the dollar, no longer corresponds with the real situation in the world.

He said circumstances have changed "and France wants the system changed so that a fundamental lack of balance shall cease."

De Gaulle recalled that France last fall proposed a change in the world's monetary system, during a meeting of the International Monetary Fund at Tokyo. This proposal was that world trade be conducted on the basis of a new unit of account, in turn based on the currencies of 10 principal trading nations.

De Gaulle today, however, asserted that gold should be the ultimate basis.

"Exchanges ought to be evalued on an indisputable monetary base, on something which does not carry the imprint of any one country. What can such a base be? There is no criterior other than gold which has no nationality."

Ohio Senate Gives OK To Public Works Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' reappointment of Alfred C. Gienow as state superintendent of public works has been unanimously confirmed by the Ohio Senate.

Gienow's new term expires Feb. 4, 1966. Under the state constitution, the public works superintendent can be appointed only for one year. Gienow was named to the post in February 1963.

U.S. Traffic Toll Reaches Record High

CHICAGO (AP) — A record traffic accident toll of 47,800 lives and $8.2 billion in economic losses last year was reported by the National Safety Council today.

The council contended in its report that prevention techniques are being applied "in a half-hearted, haphazard manner" in too many areas.

The 1964 death total showed an increase of 10 per cent over the previous high of 43,564 recorded in 1963.

An estimated 1.7 million Americans suffered injuries that disabled them beyond the day of the accident.

"The tragic record for 1964 is a clear indication that we have failed to keep pace with the vast growth of our automobile population," Howard Pyle, council president, said in a statement.

"Fundamental prevention techniques are widely known, but in too many areas they are hearted, haphazard manner.

"From 1954 to 1961 a limited application of these techniques contributed to a reduction of traffic fatalities from 9.8 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles to 5.2, a reduction of 47 per cent."

Jenkins' Medic Talks to Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Jenkins, former top aide to President Johnson, failed to appear before the Senate Rules Committee today in response to a subpoena for questioning in its Bobby Baker probe.

Instead Jenkins' lawyer, Peyton Ford, and a psychiatrist who has been treating him, Dr. Leon Yochelson, went before a closed session of the committee and asked that the former White House aide be excused from testifying.

Solons Approve Journey By Johnson to Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, newly on record as very hopeful of visiting the Soviet Union this year, has initial backing from many senators — Democrats and Republicans.

Johnson pulled a surprise Wednesday night by hinting that such a journey already is tentatively in the works. And he coupled this with an equally firm expression of hope that the new Soviet leaders will visit the United States in 1965.

Some senators said Johnson's proposed trip might further ease East-West tensions and deserved approval. Some others said it certainly would do no harm.

Johnson, addressing a black tie dinner of the Anti-Defamation League, an arm of the Jewish service organization, B'nai B'right, was interrupted twice by applause as he voiced the key sentence in his speech.

"I have reason to believe that the Soviet leadership would welcome my visit to their country (applause) — as I would be very glad to do (applause)."

Johnson had begun by saying his Jan. 4 proposal that the Soviet chiefs visit the United States was receiving active, constructive, and he hoped, fruitful attention in Moscow.

"I am very hopeful," he said, "that before the year is out this exchange of visits between us may occur."

Again there was applause, echoed when he concluded: "I believe that such visits would reassure an anxious world that our two nations reach striving toward the goal of peace."

If Johnson realizes his hope of visiting the Soviet Union, he will be the first American president to journey to that country since Franklin D. Roosevelt attended the Yalta Conference, in the Soviet Crimea, shortly before his death in 1945.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, as president, planned a Moscow trip in 1960. But this was canceled after an American U2 spy plane was shot down over the Soviet Union in May of that year. Eisenhower was to have returned a 1959 visit to the United States by Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet premier ousted last October.

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says President Johnson has received a number of tentative proposals to alleviate the nation's balance of payments deficit.

But press secretary George E. Reedy said Wednesday that Johnson has not yet started to draft a special message to Congress on the subject.

Among the proposals is one for a $100 tax on Americans going abroad. But Reedy declined to speculate on what proposals might eventually get into the President's message.

Although the United States has a favorable trade balance with foreign nations, this is more than offset by foreign aid and spending abroad by the government, U.S. corporations and individuals, including tourists.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher-than - expected discharges during December forced the Army to more than double its March draft rate.

It boosted the quota to 7,900 from the original estimate of 3,900.

The Army said it would need 15,900 men with no prior service during March. Of that total, 8,000 will come from volunteers and the remainder through Selective Service.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Indonesian Ambassador Maj. Gen. Kosasih said today the dispatch of Australian combat soldiers to Malaysian Borneo would anger the Indonesian people.

"Because of her special connection with Malaysia she has every right to do so," Kosasih told a newsman. "However, it has to be decided whether war or peace is wanted. We do not want war. We want to live in peace with our neighbors."

In Sydney, the Morning Herald said the decision to send Australian troops to the Borneo front line opened up the possibility of American intervention.

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet publication today urged Communist parties in Europe to join Socialists and take advantage of what it called a leftist trend.

Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, said that Socialists had made gains in recent elections in France, Italy, Britain, Sweden, Denmark, Luxembourg and Belgium.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister Terence O'Neill told Parliament there is no hope for political unification with the Irish Republic.

Reporting Wednesday on his secret meeting last month with the republic's Prime Minister Sean Lemass, O'Neill said they had discussed closer cultural and commercial relations.

"I hope that, if relationships can be conducted on a sane and reasonable level, policies of hatred and violence will make less and less appeal," O'Neill said.

for a five-power conference, including Red China, on revision of the United Nations, Johnson said he'd only seen a very brief press report on the conference.

"I would much prefer to await a full report on the exact statement before getting into a detailed discussion regarding the general's observations," he said. "We belive that the problems of the U.N. are traceable not to the U.N. Charter but to those countries which have violated either the spirit or the letter of the charter." He added that he would be glad to consider De Gaulle's observations later.

Johnson said he may have made a mistake in not sending Vice President Hubert Humphrey to London to represent the U.S. at Winston Churchill's funeral.

He said he had hoped to go himself if his physical condition permitted.

He said he had his staff contact former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower in hopes they could accompany him. Truman was unable to go. Eisenhower accepted the invitation.

He said he had personally called Chief Justice Earl Warren and asked if he would go with him.

"I felt that with the former president, the chief justice, the distinguished ambassador of this country, that we had a good delegation and a high ranking delegation," Johnson went on. 'I had no particular reason for not asking the vice president to go, although the vice president was addressing the delegates of 50 states on his new responsibilities in the field of civil rights."

Johnson was asked about the current Viet Nam situation. He said this country's position has not changed in its desire to help the Southeast Asia country.

Referring to McGeorge Bundy's present mission to South Viet Nam, Johnson said he was looking forward to a full exchange of views on the Viet Nam problem.

Johnson declined to speculate on the purposes of a Soviet delegation's visit to Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam. He said this country would have to await developments.

Asked about a possible conference between South and North Vietnames, and what would happen if the United States were asked to leave, Johnson said he would not want to speculate on what happens in this situation or that situation.

On the question of closing 11 veterans hospitals and several soldiers' homes, Johnson said the closings had been recommended by the past and present veterans administrators and that he had given a good deal of consideration to the action.

Johnson said he had heard from the representatives of the hospitals involved. He said he recognized the economic hardships involved.

Hearing Here Heads into Second Day

A $109,734.36 damages suit entered its second day of testimony today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

John Puffinbarger, Route 2, is seeking judgment against John H. Dunlap Jr., Route 1, Williamsport, for alleged injuries received in an auto accident April 15, 1961, near Puffinbarger's home on Route 22 west of Circleville.

Indications are that the jury trial will be carried over until Friday. The hearing got underway yesterday and was expected to adjourn at noon today and continue tomorrow with medical testimony.

• • •

THE PETITION states that Dunlap attempted to pass a car driven by Gale Seymour directly behind Puffinbarger, and while in the passing lane of traffic crashed into the plaintiff's auto.

Puffinbarger alleges, as a result of the accident, he suffered personal injuries, including a severe back injury and an injury to his right thigh which required surgery and hospitalization. He also claims he had to spend $6,782.02 for additional labor to do his farm work while he was disabled. The total judgment also includes hospital and medical bills as well as damages to his auto.

Puffinbarger is being represented by the local law firm of Crist, Davis and Weldon. The defendant is represented by the Columbus firm of Hamilton and Kramer. Judge William Ammer is hearing the case.

3 Unrelated Auto Crashes Investigated

The Pickaway County Sheriff's department investigated three unrelated single car traffic accidents during the night.

At 11:20 p. m. a truck driven by Floyd Detty, 50, Chillicothe, veered off the road on Route 23 south of Circleville when the steering gear failed.

Detty, who suffered a broken collar bone, was first taken to Berger Hospital. He was transferred to Chillicothe Hospital at his own request and later taken to University Hospital where he was admitted.

At 1:45 a. m. Ann Doyle, 32 Columbus, lost control of her car on an icy section of road 13 miles northeast of Circleville on the Circleville - Lockbourne Road.

• • •

SHE complained of pains in her chest and was referred to a doctor for treatment.

At 3:45 p. m., Kenneth M. Walters, 28, Lockbourne Air Force Base, fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed into a ditch two miles north of the site of Mrs. Doyle's accident. He sustained lacerations of the hand and lip.

All three accidents were investigated by Deputy Homer Adams. There were no citations issued.

Boy, 16 Held in Goofball Slaying; Mother Weeps at Her 'Failure'

CHICAGO (AP) — "I beg you to forgive me for having failed you," the letter said. "I love you dearly and because of my love I failed you."

That was the beginning of a letter from Yvonne Del Vecchio to her son, George, in a juvenile home Wednesday. Del Vecchio, 16, Eugene Waswil, 17, and Joseph Varchetto 16, are charged with murder and robbery.

Police say the three, all high school dropouts and from broken families, have admitted shooting and robbing Fred A. Christiansen, 66, while high on "goofballs" (pep pills) and liquor and needing money for more barbiturates. They took $11 from Christiansen who died a few minutes later in a hospital.

"We were laughing fit to die," police quoted Del Vecchio as saying. "We were hysterical. It was the (pep) pills that made us do it."

He and Varchetto were taken to a juvenile home because of their age. Waswil was lodged in jail. All three have police records.

Mrs. Del Vecchio's letter said: "Because I failed to do my duty toward you, you have killed a man. I hope that God can forgive both you and I for our mistakes. Make your peace with God, my son, and your burden shall be lightened.

"I will carry my failure to you as a cross."

Waswil's weeping mother, Frances, stood beside her son during a hearing in court Wednesday.

"I'm sorry, mother, that you have to meet your boy in court," said Judge Saul A. Epton. "It's a sad meeting, but it was a sad incident for the community."

Christiansen was shot numerous times with a 22-caliber rifle, beaten and kicked.

Christiansen, a biller at the Railway Express Co., had left his home Sunday evening to buy a package of cigarettes.

According to police, the youths were cruising Waveland Avenue on the Northwest Side in a stolen car when they saw Christiansen walking alone.

Del Vecchio said he fired repeatedly at the man. The other two said they kicked Christiansen to stop his screams.

"He kept screaming and screaming," Del Vecchio said, "so I stepped back and put about eight more shots in him."

Christiansen gasped out portions of the story before he died.

Mrs. Del Vecchio, 32, said state psychiatrists had advised her three years ago to put George into an institution.

"They read from a report which said that some time — even without his realizing it — George might kill somebody," police quoted her as saying.

But she said she had heard bad reports of boys (correctional) schools and didn't want her son sent to one.

Mrs. Del Vecchio put police onto the youths' trail. She reported Monday evening that George had been missing since Saturday night and that he had a gun. She showed officers a newspaper with an apartment advertisement circled. The youths were arrested at the apartment the next day.

Stock Prices Still Climbing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made further progress into record high ground early this afternoon in active tading.

Gold mining issues rallied on French President Charles de Gaulle's proposal for a new world money plan linked to gold and independent of the dollar and the British pound.

Wall Stret's background was brightened by President Johnson's disclosure that the new employment figures will show the jobless rate at a seven-year low.

A generally higher trend prevailed among chemicals, airlines, office equipments, nonferrous metals, rails, utilities, electrical equipments and mail order-retails.

Steels, oils and motors were generally easy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 337.8 with industrials, rails and utilities all up .4.

Court Docket Lists 4 Speeders

The Circleville Municipal Court traffic docket listed four motorists who were cited by the State Highway Patrol for exceeding the speed limit. They were:

James Hairston, Charleston, W. Va.; $29 bond forfeiture for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Robert Bain, 37, Chillicothe; $34 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Jack Stewart, 41, Kingston, $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Thomas Ford, 18, Columbus; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Continued Farm

Wool — The wool law which expires next year is operating successfully and should be extended with minor amendments.

Livestock — The administration will continue to cooperate with livestock farmers and ranchers to maintain fair prices in the market place. "We will help them to build markets here and abroad, and to preserve fair competition in the marketing of livestock and livestock products, and continue our present measures which will prevent an undue increase in imports," Johnson said.

Other commodities — Continuing study is being given to programs and needs for other farm commodities and appropriate changes and recommendtions will be made as circumstances require.

In the past, farm commodity production control and price support measures have tended to dominate presidential recommendations for farm legislation.

But Johnson has made it plain in both his State of the Union Message and his budget report that he is concerned about more than 2 million farm families which he says have no future as full-time farmers.

The message is expected to recommend short-term extension, with possibly some cost-cutting revisions, on present stabilization programs for wheat, feed grains and cotton which expire at the end of this year and on wool stabilization legislation which is scheduled to end in 1966. The commodity program recommendations would have little effect this year because they already have been set up.

The programs for cotton and the grains employ government price supports and payments to encourage producers to hold down production at a time when extra supplies are large. The wool program is designed to encourage production of more wool because of the country's great dependency on imports.

These programs and similar ones to stabilize sugar supplies and prices, plus programs under which farmers are paid to hold unneeded crop land out of use cost a record $2,169,000,000 last year.

The President's preoccupation with the fate of the unemployed and underemployed in rural areas — both on and off farms — has overshadowed his concern over income of commercial farms.

"With the help of the federal government's farm commodity programs, some of the larger and more efficient farmers are now receiving rates of return for their labor, capital and management nearly comparable with the rates received in other parts of the economy," he said in his budget message.

He added: "But in view of the market outlook for farm commodites at home and abroad, farming alone cannot be expected to provide a decent living in the future for more than about 1 million farm families, even with continued government assistance."

He said the big job in rural America is to help develop opportunities for needy farm families and the non-farm jobless in rural communities.

Bond Issues Are Plugged By Rhodes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Outlining a plan to spend $913 million in seven counties surrounding Cleveland, Gov. James A. Rhodes has urged passage of state bond issues May 4 so money will be available to carry out the projects.

The plan is spread over five-years and is part of a "master plan" for economic development in northeast Ohio, Rhodes said Wednesday in an address to the Regional Planning Commission.

The area discussed by Rhodes includes Cuyahoga, Lorain, Summit, Lake, Medina, Portage and Geauga counties.

Most of the money—$786 million — is earmarked for highways.

Rhodes plugged hardest for passage of State Bond Issue 2 —a constitutional amendment proposal to provide $290 million in bonds for industrial development, capital improvements, natural resources and educational facilities. Also included in Bond Issue 2 is a proposal for a 240-mile pipeline from Maumee, Ohio, to Lake Erie

Issue 1 on the primary ballot proposed constitutional amendments to provide guarantees of loans to college students who are Ohio residents. Issue 3 is a proposal for reapportionment of the Ohio House of representatives and Issue 4 will permit the state to make and guarantee loans for industrial development.

Du Pont Lists Appointments

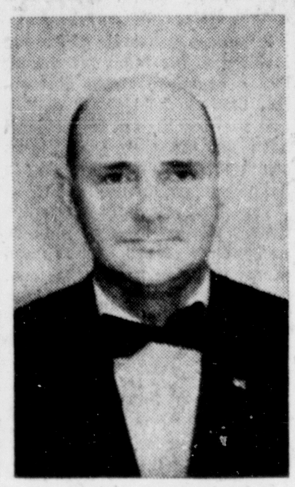
ROBERT A. CHESNEY



JOHN J. SUAREZ

Two more appointments have been announced by officials at the local Du Pont plant.

Robert A. Chesney, 512 Plaza Drive, has been named power supervisor. John J. Suarez, Chillicothe, was appointed a development supervisor in the technical section.

Chesney is a graduate of the University of Kentucky where he was awarded a BS degree in mechanical engineering. He joined Du Pont in 1960 as an engineer in the projects section.

He successively served as power and area engineer until the new assignment. He is a member of the Church of Christ.

• • •

SUAREZ was awarded a BS degree in civil engineering at New York University. He came with Du Pont in 1955 as a design engineer at the Spruance film plant in Virginia.

The new development supervisor was assigned to Circleville in 1956 as a project engineer in the works engineering section. He later was a supervisor in the section.

Suarez and his wife, Isabel, have six children. They are John, Petra Lee, Madelane, Lisa, Christopher and Paul.

A past president of the PTA in Chillicothe, he has worked extensively with Boy Scouts as master, committeeman and adviser. He is a member of the St. Peter's Church and is a director of the church's credit union.

Lena Horne Grows Tired Of Her Solo Singing Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singing solo can be a lonely business, and so Lena Horne is looking for new fields for her talents.

Those talents show no sign of diminishing, either in artistry or draw. Last week she opened at the Valley Music Theater in nearby Woodland Hills and twice drew a standing ovation.

For Lena it was a happy return to the land where she spent a decade of her earlier career.

She went under contract to MGM in 1942 and sang in the studio's glamor-packed musicals — "Panama Hattie,' "Broadway Rhythm," "Two Girls and Sailor," "Ziegfield Folliies," "Words and Music" etc. But her appearances were always on a segregated basis. In the midst of a night club scene a voice would announce, "and here she is — the incomparable Lena Horne."

She would perform a song or two in the films, but never took part in the plots.

"That was very conveniently arranged so the sequence could be snipped out for showing in certain states," she remarked.

Lena played roles in only two films: the all-Negro "Cabin in the Sky" and "Stormy Weather," the latter a loanout to Fox. "Both of them made a load of money," she recalled, "but that didn't convince the studios to make more."

Lena left MGM to become one of the top attractions in night clubs, a field which holds little charm for her. Of late she has limited her engagements to two or three a year and hasn't played Las Vegas for four years.

Lena enjoyed her Broadway show of a few seasons back, "Jamaica," since it allowed her to be part of a team effort. She has averaged a pair of television guest appearances yearly, but found it difficult to fulfill her hopes for starring specials. She recently made a television special in England and plans to return for another.

Lake Erie Pipeline Said 5 Years Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An $85 million pipeline to serve the Maumee Valley with Lake Erie water is at least five years away, the Maumee River Basin Pipeline Study has reported.

The report was reviewed by department officials and state legislators from the Maumee Valley area. It was released to the Ohio Department of Development by Stanley Engineering, Cleveland.

Development officials said $20 million from the proposed $290 million bond issue is needed to get the project underway.

A bill was introduced Tuesday which would appropriate $40,000 to study piping Lake Erie water to sections of Huron, Portage and Sandusky, river basins.

102 Youths Get Look Inside Capitol Hill Arena

EDITOR'S NOTE — The youthful bounce of 102 high school students from across the nation is adding an extra zest this week to the Senate side of Capitol Hill. The young people are in the capital for the annual Senate Youth Program. One of them is Tom Metzler, 17, a senior at St. Paul's High School, Whittier, Calif. In this story he reports on the students' activities and impressions.

By TOM METZLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Studying about our governmental process in a classroom is great — for starters. But nothing beats first-hand exposure to the complex and well-oiled machinery of the nation's main political arena on Capitol Hill.

As one of the 102 students here for the United States Senate Youth Program sponsored by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, I have had an opportunity to visit the offices of several senators. I saw the hectic rat-race each senator labeled as "routine."

When I visited the office of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., I was immediately taken aback by the enormous and sprawling stacks of mail that seemed to completely cover his five-room suite.

One of his assistants told me that Sen. Kennedy receives in the neighborhood of 1,200 letters a day and more than 25 per cent are from states other than New York.

Marc Miller, a 17-year-old program delegate from Brookville, Long Island, N.Y., visited Kennedy's office with me. Later he said to me, "Sen. Kennedy is so firmly dedicated. I hope some of the lazy senators will wake up and start moving forward with him."

Highlighting Tuesday afternoon's session of the program was an address by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

He put forth the idea that the past few years and the ones to come are going to be a time of great change and he only wished that he could be so young as to be right in the middle of it.

After Humphrey rushed off amidst a standing ovation, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., called on Sen. Kennedy to come up and give a brief statement.

Kennedy began by saying, "Since coming to the Senate I've realized what a very important man I am.

"Not only do I have my own private parking space but I hold seniority over two other senators."

He praised the young people for taking an active interest in politics.

As Kennedy left the room he was surrounded by all the young Senate programmers and beset with pleas for autographs and pictures. One female member of the group, Sylvia Chin from Washington, D.C., asked Kennedy, "what do you think of the Beatles?" The reply went muffled in the din of the crowd.

Kathy Halverson, delegate from San Lorenzo, Calif., visited Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., and drew this impression: "If he's as nice to his wife as he was to me then he's my kind of man."

Today the students attend various committee meetings on Capitol Hill and Thursday they will hear a report on America's poverty problem from Sargent Shriver. Friday, there's to be a visit to the White House.

I asked John Mathieu from Memphis, Tenn., to sum up his feelings on the Senate Youth Program so far.

"It's terrific but somebody is going to get killed in those revolving doors," he replied.

Apart from the lighter moments, why are we here?

The William Randolph Hearst Foundation, which picks up the program's annual tab of $70,000 for the students from all 50 states, hopes that all those who attend will be better acquainted with the problems facing our country and that it will mold better Americans.

2 Cleveland Firms Announce Merger Plan

CLEVELAND (AP)—National Castings Co. will become a subsidiary of Midland-Ross Corp. under a merger agreement announced by the two companies Wednesday.

The agreement, which must be approved by shareholders of both Cleveland firms, provides for exchanging each of the 664,147 shares of National Castings common for 45-100 share of a new $100 convertible preferred to be issued by Midland-Ross.

West Clermont School Levy Faces Vote Again

GLEN ESTE, Ohio (AP) — West Clermont School District's operating levy — which may mean the difference betwen bus rides and walking to hundreds of high school students—is headed towards another test in the voting booths. The school board voted Wednesday night to submit the 5.5 mill levy to the voters March 2 in a special election. A 2.5 mill levy was defeated twice, on Nov. 3 and Dec. 8.

As a result, the schools have been operating under an austerity program. Students at West Clermont High School have to find their own way to school and buses pick up junior high school students only on main roads.

Ashtabula Woman Files For City Manager Job

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Wilma Sherry, the first woman ever to file as a candidate for Ashtabula city manager, says her major interest, if she is elected, will be to eliminate her job as a political post.

Mrs. Sherry, a former vice precident of City Council, says she only wants the manager's post so she can push a charter amendment to provide for a professional city manager who would be hired by the city rather than elected.

Many Guests Present for Holstein Fete

Numerous local and out-of-county guests were present for the Pickaway County Holstein banquet conducted at Logan Elm School.

The meeting portion of the fete was conducted by Reuben Jones, president. A turkey dinner was prepared and served by the Logan Elm Booster Club.

James Lewis of Hamilton was guest speaker. He showed slide of The Netherlands and Ecuador where he had traveled.

Out-of-county guests included Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Sims of Lancaster. Dr. Sims is a National Holstein director. William Shipley of Urbana, state vice president, also was present.

• • •

ATTENDING from Hamilton were Morris Van Gordon and Roy Hager. Fairfield County was represented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Whims, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Ety.

Additional guests were Central Ohio Breeding Assn. representative Larry Neal, assistant field secretary William Eustice of Wooster, supervisor of milk testing at Ohio State University Lewis Jones and his wife, Mark Stoese and Mr. and Mrs Ballard.

George Hamrick represented the Pickaway County Extension office; Wayne Parker the Ross County Farm Bureau; Mr. and Mrs. Don Ardrey, COBA; Robert Baird, the Pickaway Grain Co; and Chaney Vance, Columbus Production Credit.

Awarded special recognition by the Holstein organization were Raymond Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Jones of Route 4, and Jean Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark, Route 2.

Neo-Isolationist Dream

By John Chamberlain

The word that is being passed around in Washington for some threatened new beginnings in our foreign policy is 'neo-isolationism.'' The phrase was launched when Walter Lippmann, in a column which, in effect, proposed that we liquidate our commitments in Southeast Asia and tropical Africa, cheerfully admitted to having become an isolationist of sorts.

The Johnson Administration has not fully declared its hand in the South Vietnam struggle nor yet again in the matter of supporting Tshombe in the Congo. And maybe Lyndon Johnson is only temporarily a ''neo-isolationist''; he recently told an influential American publisher, so I have it on good authority, that he just wanted six months to put over his domestic program in Congress before digging in to solve world problems.

If there is really to be a concerted drive for ''neo-isolationist'' solutions to our troubles, it will settle no problems if the Russians and the Red Chinese are not prepared to be ''neo-isolationist'' too. What Mr. Lippmann, Senator William J. Fulbright and others in the neo-isolationist camp have in mind is an ideal solution that would depend on a real summit meeting of Brezhnev and Kosygin and Mao Tse-tung and Charles de Gaulle and Harold Wilson and Lyndon Johnson. The world would have to be divided again, as it was once supposedly divided by the Pope who gave African and Brazilian spheres to Portugal and western South America to Spain, or by the Emperor Alexander and Napoleon, when they sat on a raft in an East Prussian river, the Memel, and worked out the short-lived Peace of Tilsit.

If there is no comprehensive settlement, a ''neo-isolationist'' course undertaken by the United States would merely produce a series of vacuums into which our enemies would rush. A ''disengagement'' in South Vietnam would be a signal to the whole ''underdeveloped'' world of Asia, Africa and South America that the United States had once again admitted to being a paper tiger. The British would be left to defend Malaysia against Indonesia with only a shaky Thailand and Cambodia to keep an Asiatic Communist pincer from closing on their backs from the north. The Australians and the New Zealanders would be compelled to militarize themselves, and there would be much frightened re-reading in the Antipodes of the old defensive plans elaborated in 1942, when it was actually proposed to defend the South Australian cities by drawing a line from the city of Brisbane through the great central desert to the Indian Ocean. MacArthur saved the Australians from having to stand on the Brisbane line, but there is no American MacArthur in the Far East today.

''Neo-isolationist'' withdrawal from South Vietnam without a complete summit settlement would, of course, advertise to the Filipinos, the South Koreans, the Okinawans, the Japanese, the Taiwan Chinese, the Cambodians, the Burmese, the Laotians, the Thais and to every African nation that the word of the U. S. is worthless. It would become impossible to have a foreign policy. The rumblings of a Hukbalahap Communist revival in the Philippines would swell to a roar. Theoretically, if would still be possible for the U. S. to make a new stand in the Far East with its Seventh Fleet. But who would be willing to believe that we would use the fleet to defend the offshore island countries? When we flubbed the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, Khrushchev deduced that we would do nothing if he were to load Castro's country with missiles. When one nation says ''a'' in its foreign policy moves, the enemy naturally says ''b.'' And then the fat is in the fire.

It would indeed be a wonderful thing if the heads of all the great powers would sit down and work out some formula of permanent spheres of influence that would guarantee a universal peace. But as a hope this is almost as Utopian today as a proposition to colonize the planet Mars. Soviet Russia wants co-existence, but when you analyze Soviet use of the phrase it becomes apparent that the Russians only want it for the sake of eastern Europe. Mao Tse-tung might agree to co-existence if we would only withdraw to Waikiki.

Meanwhile four thousand Castroite guerrillas are operating in Venezuela, and there is a guerrilla movement springing up on the Argentine-Bolivia border. ''Neo-isolationism'' such a context is only another name for defeat.

Tribute to a Newsman's Hero

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody needs a personal hero, someone to lift him above the limits of the ordinary and to demonstrate that higher human goals can be won.

Lucky is the man who can find a hero in youth and still admire him as he ages.

Such a hero to me was one who died this week at 84 and was known universally in the news world as ''KC.''

They are the initials of Kent Cooper, who for a quarter of a century was the boss man of The Associated Press, the world's largest press association.

Less well known to the general public than writers such as Ernie Pyle or Richard Harding Davis, Cooper already is a landmark figure in the history of modern journalism.

He was a tradition smasher, and an applecart-upsetter. He swept through the stodgy newspaper atmosphere of his day like a polar wind. He was a pioneer in the speedier transmission of news, the humanization of news, and a champion in the fight for worldwide freedom of the press — or, in his own apt phrase, the people's ''right to know.''

That's the way he'll go down in the textbooks. But it is as a man — not a symbol—thatI like to remember KC, for whom I worked as a copy boy, a cub reporter, a city editor and a war correspondent.

By the time I first met him in New York in 1937 he already was a controversial legend. Like Gen. George S. Patton, whom he resembled in many ways, he was either extravagantly admired or extravagantly disliked.

He was a man who liked to dream big, and do old things better in new ways. To do them he had to step on many toes.

In person KC was stocky, of medium height, and had dark and magnetic eyes. Those eyes seemed to have fingers in them that reached out and grabbed your mind as he talked.

He could in one instant be as boyish as Tom Sawyer and the next instant as imperious as a Turkish sultan. He could be sentimental, and he could be tougher than the foreman of a railroad gang. He was lavish in his reward for good work, equally swift in punishing ineptitude. He couldn't stand people who were mentally flat-footed.

When an underling was summoned to his presence after botching up a job, the office wiseacres advised him:

''Don't bother to go in with your head in your hands. KC will cut it off for you.''

But as an inspirer of loyalty, Cooper was in a class by himself. When he finished the pep talk he gave me before I went overseas, I felt that ''The Associated Press'' was branded on my forehead in neon lights — and I was ready to fight Adolf Hitler and his Nazi legions single-handed with a fountain pen.

The other day I spent an hour alone with him, the last hero of my lifetime. The restless face in the coffin was set in final peace, but I still felt the awe of him that I had felt since I went to work for him at 17.

An old-timer who had worked closely with him for many years came into the room.

''I can't think of him as being old,'' he said. ''You know, he never really was at ease except with young people — because they are the only ones who aren't really afraid of new ideas.''

I think KC would have enjoyed that as his epitaph.

By BENNETT CERF

A TOUGH, ill-tempered novice in the prize ring was overmatched with a leader in his division, and was knocked cold in the second round. Regaining consciousness a half-hour later in the dressing room, he found his manager hovering solicitously over him. ''You get me a retoin match wid dat bum,'' he told his manager balefully, ''and den you is going to see a REAL massacre. I'll knock your block off!''

Clancy and his wife were equally fond of their mangy, mean-tempered cat. ''Pat,'' demanded Mrs. Clancy as her husband climbed into bed one night, ''Did you put out the cat?'' ''That I did,'' maintained Pat. ''I don't believe you,'' countered Mrs. C. ''Right-o,'' conceded Pat. ''If you think I'm a liar, get up and put her out yourself.''

Sixteen-year-old Luci Baines Johnson catches on quickly. The other day, attending a class at the National Cathedral School, the teacher produced for study a pair of mice in a box. Remarked Miss Johnson sagely, ''You should pick them up by the tail—but I'm not going to do it!''

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Our daughter is 15 years old. She is a sophomore in high school. The inevitable problem of smoking has just arisen. She says that ''all the girls'' smoke and that she wants to be one of the crowd.

She further points to the fact that we, her parents, smoke. She insists that she only smokes three or four cigarettes a day and that she can stop any time she wants to.

We are sure that this is a problem shared by many parents who would welcome any suggestions you might have for handling it.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S.,
Maryland

Dear Mr. and Mrs. S: Yours is truly a universal problem. All adults and most adolescents must, by now, be aware of the disadvantages to health attributed to smoking.

The habit patterns of smoking are so deeply ingrained in adults that many people find it difficult or almost impossible to give up the habit. It is this very struggle . . . the difficulty that confronts thousands of adults who would happily give up smoking . . .that should be emphasized to children .

When your daughter uses her parents' smoking as justification for her own right to smoke, she should be told frankly that it is precisely because the habit is so difficult to break that you want to spare her this painful experience when she herself decides ultimately to try to break the smoking habit.

Your daughter's statement that she wants to be one of the crowd is the key to the problem of adolescent smoking. Smoking has become a status symbol of the immature adolescent. To many of these children, ''lighting up'' means the difference between being ''in the groove'' or just a ''square.''

It is strange that as they grow older it is the non-smoker who becomes the symbol of maturity and who earns the respect (and secret envy) of his peers.

When young people pass through the period of ''to be or not to be'' a smoker and emerge as a non - smoker, they are grateful that they have resisted the temptation.

Parents tend to fall into a trap when they say to their children. ''If you're going to smoke behind our backs, we'd rather you smoke in the open.'' Too often this attitude is an excuse for the inability of parents to exercise their mature judgment and say simply, ''You do not have our permission to smoke, neither in our presence nor behind our backs.''

The protection of the health of children is one of the great obligations of parents. Their health must not be sacrificed because parents are afraid to establish limits for their children.

Public health officials, doctors, teachers and school administrators are concentrating on keeping the young adolescent from beginning the inevitable smoking habit. In this way, the chronic respiratory illnesses so devastating to the health of our nations can once more be reduced to a minimum.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — All of the debating in Congress and out on whether gold backing for U.S. currency and bank deposits should be maintaiend or cut can't hide the underlying problem:

U.S. gold reserves would not have been drained since 1958 nor threatened now if the United States hadn't been running a continuous deficit in its international financial payments.

What to do about this monetary deficit, and who or what is to blame for it will be increasingly debated as Congress acts on gold reserve revisions.

The gap between the outflow of dollars and the return flow widened in the final quarter of 1964 after showing some improvement early in the year. and the drain of gold increased this January after dropping to a trickle last year.

President de Gaulle of France is blamed for the most recent loss because he wants his central bank to hold fewer dollars and more gold. But he couldn't have got the U.S. gold if this country hadn't been running a balance of payments deficit.

That let the supply of surplus dollars pile up in other nations. And their central banks can and occasionally do turn in some of this surplus for the gold the U.S. Treasury keeps at Ft. Knox and in its vaults in lower Manhattan.

Last year the United States sent $2.6 billion more dollars, for private and government spending, abroad than it got back, adding by that much to the foreign-held surplus building up over the years.

Trade cannot be blamed. U.S. commercial exports topped imports by $3.6 billion. And to this can be added $4 billion of net income on foreign investments. The loss was from other financial dealingss.

Private American investments abroad came to $2.1 billion, and foreign investments in the United States to $100 million. U.S. banks lent $1.2 billion to foreigners. And Americasn added $200 million of long-term foreign securities to their portfolios. Short-term financial dealings show U.S. private investment going to $2.1 billion, offset only in par tby $1.2 billion of foreign investment in U. S. short-term securities.

This works out to a net loss of private capital of $4.3 billion.

Government overseas spending for defense came to $2.8 billion and grants and loans to other nations drained $3.8 billion more.

Governor's Award List Is Lengthy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Presentation of an annual Governor's Awards to a long list of Ohioans who have made their mark in many fields of endeavor, will climax the Ohio Newspaper Association's annual banquet here Friday night.

Another highlight at the banquet will be presentation of the association's distinguished public service award—the second ever to be awarded by the group — to Ohio's Democratic U. S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche. J. Edgar Hoover received the initial award several years ago.

Lausche's award will be for his record of more than 30 years of public service as judge, governor and senator. He will speak at a Friday luncheon of the convention.

The Governor's Award was established 15 years ago to "reward persons who have enhanced the state's prestige through their deeds or activities."

F. P. Neuenschwander, director of the Ohio Department of Development, will be master of ceremonies during the presentation ceremonies.

Those to receive the plaques Friday night are:

Lester A. Burcham, president, F. W. Woolworth Co.; Thomas A. Burke, former Cleveland Mayor and U. S Senator; Otis Paul Drayton, Olympic gold medal winner; Raymond C. Firestone, chief executive officer, Firestone Tire Rubber Co.; John F. Gordon, president, General Motors Corp.; Louis R. Groza, Cleveland Browns football star; John S. Knight, 50-year newspaper veteran and head of Knight Newspapers; Ruth Lyons, television personality and J. A. Meckstroth, Columbus, retired newspaper editor.

Jerrie Mock, first woman to fly solo around the world; Jack Nicklaus, professional golfer, Dr. Louis E. Pete, founder of All-Ohio Boys Band; Dr. Albert B. Sabin, developer of oral polio vaccine; Robert K. Schul, first American to win the 5,000-meter race in the Olympics, and James W. Shocknessy, chairman of the Ohio Turnpike Commission and expediter of Interstate 71.

Lima Boys Held In Gem Thefts

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Two Lima youths have been questioned in connection with burglaries in six Ohio cities. The robberies netted more than $20,000 in jewelry and watches in the past six weeks.

Donald Weigel, 18, Lima, one of the youths questioned Wednesday was arrested by Allen County sheriff's deputies on a charge of attempted break-in of a Lima tavern. Lima police were reported holding the second youth.

The jewelry store burglaries in St. Marys, Wapakoneta, Delphos, Fostoria, Marysville and Covington are being investigated by the Allen County Sheriff's Department and Lima police.

According to Fritz F. Jacobs, superintendent of schools, the course will consist of two meetings. They will be three hours each evening on Feb. 18 and Feb. 25. The sessions will run from 7 to 10 p.m. at designated areas in the high school.

Roger Bennington, local attorney, will be the instructor. Materials for instructional purposes will be furnished by the State Department of Education

Registration will be conducted at Superintendent Jacobs' office in the high school. Or individuals may send the registration form (listed below) to the superintendent's office.

* * *

JACOBS said it is imperative interested persons submit the registration forms as soon as possible so that the number of adults in the class may be predetermined.

An announcement will be published Feb. 15 to notify participants of the exact location in the high school where the course will be conducted.

Registration fee for the entire course, consisting of six hours, will be $1 per registrant. The fee will be paid when registering or during the first evening of instruction.

If checks are submitted, they should be made payable to the Circleville City Board of Education. The forms found below are to be returned to: Superintendent's Office, Circleville High School, 520 S. Court St. Circleville.

Registration will be conducted until Feb. 12. The clinic is open to the city-county public.

Newspapers Open Annual Ohio Parley

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Opening of exhibits and displays at the Columbus Plaza Hotel this afternoon marks the start of the Ohio Newspaper Association's annual three - day convention.

Annual newspaperboy awards to an outstanding junior and senior carrier, always a part of the annual banquet, will be announced Friday. It will be the 13th annual Glenn L. Cox Newspaperboy Achievement Competition involving selections from more than 50,000 newspaperboys.

Among other speakers during the convention will be T. A. Serrill, executive vice prssident, National Editorial Association, Washington, D. C., who will speak to the Ohio League of Home Dailies at a breakfast Friday, and Phil Newsom of United Press International who also speaks at a Friday morning session.

The weeklies will hold sessions both morning and afternoon, as will the dailies. The Buckeye Press Association will elect officers at a Friday session, and winners of the annual Osman C. Hooper Newspaper Show will be announced on Friday.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plays the cards close to his chest, at home and abroad, but thinks he has broad public approval —consensus, he calls it — for what he has in mind for America.

News reporters, restless because Johnson has held only one press confernce this year asked for one. But his press secretary, George Reedy, after talking with the President, told them Wednesday:

"For the time being he has no particular new informtion to volunteer that you don't have already."

Then Wednesday night Johnson announced he would be glad to go to Russia for talks with Soviet leaders. The Associated Press reported from the White House this was obviously encouraged by secret, month-long contacts with Moscow.

Johnson can play quiet a home, too, until it suits him otherwise.

After his election last November there was speculation he would go easy, be sparing in his programs, and offer only watered-down ones to avoid conflict even though his victory had been overwhelming.

The reason given for this speculation: Johnson remembers how President Franklin D Roosevelt, despite his vast victory in 1936, was hobbled for years by an angry Congress after he tried to reorganize the Supreme Court.

But when Johnson delivered his state of the Union message Jan. 4 he madeabout 50 proposals and followed up with two that had been red-hot, unresolved issues for years: Federal aid to education, including parochial schools, and medical care for the aged financed through Social Security.

And Wednesday night, to show he is willing to confront opposition, he said that between Jan. 4 and the end of this week he will have sent Congress sixteen messages facing up to conflicts, to controversies and "to the needs for change in our society."

Strangely, this year there was relatively little heat over the education and medical care programs and, stranger, both now seem to have a good chance of going through. How does this happen?

This seems the best answer: Johnson, an expert politician, wants results and not conflicts. Instead of ducking the conflict, he cools off both sides before making his programs public.

He would probably call the nonviolent reaction to the medical care and education programs, just to use two examples, a reflection of what he calls the "consensus" of American thinking.

He worked that word "consensus" overtime in the campaign but, because he hasn't been holding news conferences, the public hasn't been hearing it from him. It probably will from now on. He used "consensus" 13 times Wednesday night.

What does he mean by it? He seems to use it interchangeably with "mandate."

The dictionary meaning of "mandate" is "instruction by a constituency" and "consensus" means an "agreement in matters of opinion."

Very early in the morning after election day last November Johnson revealed he considered his great victory a "mandate" to carry out his ideas.

He told a waiting crowd in Texas: "I doubt that there has ever been so many people saying so many things alike on decision day. It is a mandate for unity."

He has been preaching unity ever since and Wednesday night repeated the Texas talk but this way: "The unity of our people — and the consensus of their will — must be the instrument we put to use to strengthen our society. We are not avoiding controversy to prolong the political consensus."

In short, Johnson interprets the election as a go-ahead for the programs he thinks the voters were telling him they wanted. Yet, it will probably all be done quietly, to avoid needless controversy.

Lions Hear Program On India

Mrs. Walter Heine presented the program, "Life Begins at 65," when the Circleville Lions Club met this week at the Wardell Party Home.

The principle person in her story was Mrs. Letta Roberson, Mrs. Heine's sister, who retired at the age of 65. Searching for some useful activity, she read a book about the needs of people in India.

Mrs. Roberson, with financial help from members of the Farm Bureau where she retired, went to India.

Mrs. Heine spoke of Mrs. Roberson's many activities and showed slides for illustration. Of special interest to the Lions Club was the work done concerning defective vision.

* * *

TRACHOMA, a disease of the eyes, was prevalent among the people of the village of Literacy where Mrs. Roberson works. She stated that one doctor, one nurse and herself had done as many as 17 cataract operations in one day in very crude surroundings. Not a single case of infection resulted.

Wilber Franklin, senior deputy governor of District 13-B, was an official guest. He announced that the state convention would be May 14, 15 and 16 at the Commodore Perry Hotel in Toledo. President Woodward stated that plans were being made for a sausage and pancake supper, followed by a rummage sale the same evening.

Persons desiring to contribute articles to the rummage sale may contact Lions Garold Crites, W. E. Reichelderfer or Charles Wellman.

It was also announced that a special ladies night would be held Mar. 2. The place will be announced at the next meeting.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Your Husband's Right

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a "thing" about money. He is not stingy or anything like that. In fact, he is very generous, but this is what I mean: He likes to play gin rummy, but if he doesn't keep the score he goes over the figures to make sure there are no mistakes. When we dine out, he never pays the check without going over it very carefully. He always counts his change no matter how long the line is. Abby, he is not a poor man. In fact he owns his own business. He's a self - made man who started with nothing and has worked hard for what he has, and he's done very well. But it is embarrassing to have a husband who gives the imprssion that everyone is out to cheat him.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I admire your husband. No honest person resents having his figures checked. He welcomes it. And any one who pays a bill without going over it, is foolish. "Change-counters" are appreciated in every reliable place of business. (The cashier doesn't enjoy staying late to figure out why she's 30c short.) Don't be embarrassed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a newcomer in town. I recently met a rather attractive, middle - aged single woman briefly at a party. We exchanged a few words and I got the feeling that she liked me. (A man can usually tell those things.) Yesterday she telephoned me at my office and invited me to what I am sure will be a very elegant party, and I accepted with pleasure. After I hung up I realized that she had made no mention of my wife. I'm not sure she knows I am married. Would it be improper of me simply to bring my wife? Or should I call her and ask if my wife is welcome? What if she thought I was unmarried and expected me to be her escort? She is one of the leading socialites in town and I wouldn't want to do the wrong thing.

IN A QUANDRY

DEAR IN: Call the woman and ask if the invitation includes your wife, suggesting that perhaps she did not know you were married. If she is a lady, she'll include your Mrs.— but don't count on it. I have a hunch she knew you were married when she invited you — alone.

DEAR ABBY: It so happens that I dislike mashed potatoes so, when I am served, I mix them with something else so I can get them down. Is this considered bad manners?

A very educated lady who thinks she is better than anyone else recently said to me, when she saw me mixing my mashed potatoes with stewed tomatoes and peas (which I also mashed), "Will you kindly refrain from mixing you food up that way — it is positively nauseating!"

I am awaiting your opinion of (a) my table manners.. . .(b) her rudeness. Sincerely,

BURNING

DEAR BURNING: If you'll just skip the mashed potatoes, you won't invite rudeness (or nausea) in others.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read in your column a letter from a woman blaming the shoe industry for making shoes that are ruining the women's feet.

If women don't know enough to buy shoes that fit, it isn't the shoe manufacturers' fault. They make shoes in every size and style. As for the pointed-toed shoes of today, if women would buy the right size, they wouldn't have any trouble.

SHOEMAKERS WIFE

Wife Preservers

Avoid a "pressed flat" look after ironing tucked garments by lifting the edge of each tuck slightly with a table knife.

You don't have to add extra liquid to regular biscuit dough when you are using the dough for drop biscuits. Just spoon the dough into small muffin-pan wells instead of rolling out.

Next time you fry liver and onions, you might like to make gravy from the drippings in the pan.

If you want a snappy tasting cheese sauce, use ¼ pound of sharp cheddar cheese for two cups of white sauce.

Mrs. Barr Hosts WCTU

Mrs. Ira Barr was hostess Tuesday afternoon when members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union met.

An appropriate worship center consisting of white candles in crystal holders and a picture of Christ set the scene for the theme of the month, "Ye Are the Light of the World."

In remembrance of Frances E. Willard, founder of the WCTU, a birthday cake and her picture were placed on the worship table. Each member participated in the lighting ceremony of the birthday cake.

Jane Barr sang a solo, and Mrs. Paul Hankins vice president, read Scripture and gave the meditation and prayer. Group singing was conducted.

Pledges to the flags were given. Mrs. Barr, secretary, and Miss Edna Rice, treasurer, reported. It was announced an offering had been sent to the Frances Willard fund.

Mrs. Hankins conducted the program. Topics discussed were "A Peace Warrior" and "Recorded Silence" by Mrs. Harry Sharrett. Reports were given by all members and a card was signed to be sent to Miss Mar Harpster, president, who is a patient in Berger Hospital.

The meeting closed with group singing and the benediction. A salad course was served by the hostess.

General Guild Forum Held

The Berger Hospital General Guild forum was held in the guild rooms at the hospital. There were 12 guilds represented and Guild No. 31 served as host.

Mrs. Burl Wiggins, first vice president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Carlos Alvarez, Bazaar co - chairman, expressed thanks to all who helped with the Bazaar. She said a profit of more than $2,00 was realized and 17 guilds participated.

Mrs. Kenneth Luna reported on the Gift Shop and the success of the Christmas Tea. Gift Shop committee members plan to attend the Gift Shop Show in Columbus this month. Mrs. Ruth Crist is a new member of the committee.

Mrs. Ray Carroll was named chairman of the nominating committee. She will be assisted by Mrs. William Stout and Mrs. Robert Turner.

Miss Ellen Leist, superintendent, presented a revised equipment list and explained that the items listed are the most needed ones for the second operating room which they hope to have ready soon.

Mrs. Wiggins reminded the guilds of the annual gift procedures which are as follows: guilds choosing equipment should inform the general guild president; the administrator is told of the individual choices and then orders the equipment.

Miss Leist explained that she would be glad to give anyone information on items and help them with their selections.

Guild No. 35 volunteered to host the forum meeting in April

Group Plans Session

Members of Circle No. 1, WSCS of First Methodist Church, will meet 8 p.m. Monday in the church parlor.

Offer Overcame Fears

BELGRADE (AP) — The Yugoslav National Airline took a planeload of selected air - scared passengers on a free ride to Dubrovnik and back to convince them that travel by plane was pleasant.

The free flight was open to persons who would admit they never had flown because they were scared. Five thousand applications were received and the airline selected 40 of those who sounded tehe most frightened.

Anti-Red Teachings In Ohio Are Hailed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Institute for American Strategy of Chicago has praised the Ohio Board of Education for significant steps in encouraging state schools to teach children about the dangers of communism.

The institute, in a newly published booklet, noted that Ohio law does not require schools to teach about communism, but gave Supt. E. E. Holt and his staff credit for encouraging such education.

Top SCO Scorers To Meet In Circleville-Panther Tilt

Friday's South Central Ohio League basketball game between Circleville and Miami Trace, slated for the Tiger gymnasium, not only pits two of the top three teams in the loop, but also will feature four of the top five scorers.

Tom Townsend, high scoring senior guard for Miami Trace, has tallied 127 points in league competition. He holds down first place in the loop point-producing race.

But only a point behind Townsend is Circleville's John Maxwell with 126 markers. John Thomas, with 122 points in the league, is in third place in the scoring. Holding down fifth place is Dan Huffman of Miami Trace with 116 points.

Overall for the Tigers Thomas has a 232 point total in 13 games for an average of 17.9 markers per game.

* * *

MAXWELL has been firing at a 15.1 clip per game with a total of 196 points. Chet Iery also in the top 10 in the league, has 191 for a 14.7 average.

Tim Stonerock, Tiger sophomore guard, is just below a 10-point average with 126 markers in the 13 games Circleville has played.

All of the top four scorers for the Tigers have proven themselves capable of taking the scoring initiative.

Maxwell recorded the high single effort when he tallied 31 points against Greenfield. Thomas notched 26 points against Lancaster while Iery came through with a 26-point effort against Chillicothe. These three highs were all recorded on the Tigers' home floor.

Stonerock's best effort was a 22-point production at Washington C. H.

Rounding out the scoring for Circleville, Doug Roth has tallied 41 points, Ronnie Seward, 38, Doug Price 29 and Jim Diltz 10.

Following Friday's home game, the Tigers travel to Westfall Saturday for a tilt that will attract much local interest.

Past Catches Tarheel College Cage Coach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You might say Press Maravich's past has caught up with him.

Maravich was the undefeated North Carolina State basketball coach until Wednesday night when sixth-ranked Duke defeated his Wolfpack 84-74 and took over sole possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Instrumental in the victory was Jack Marin, a junior who played high school basketball in Section 3 of the Western Pennsylvania Athletic League, the same section in which Maravich had coached a few years earlier.

Although Marin came along after Maravich had headed South, the N.C. State coach always has kept in close touch with the rich basketball fields of western Pensylvania.

Marin put on his best performance of the season, pouring in 32 points in Duke's 12th triumph against two defeats.

"We'd have won without him in there; he was out of this world," said Maravich after he saw his 11-game winning string halted. He hadn't lost since taking over from Everett Case two months ago and had the Wolfpack tied with Duke going into the game.

Marin, averaging 16.6 points a game before the vital ACC contest, flipped in 14 of 17 tries from the field. With slightly more than five minutes to play, State cut the Blue Devils' lead to 70-67, but Marin's jumper triggered Duke to its winning margin.

St. Joseph's, Pa., was the only other Top Ten team in action, toppling Georgetown, D.C., 80-72 for its 18th victory in 19 games. The third-ranked Hawks trailed until well into the second half before they got started. Georgetown held a 40-30 halftime lead.

The Hawks, however, rallied with a fast-break, scored 10 straight points with less than six minutes left and held on for its eighth straight triumph.

Although the schedule was somewhat light, at least four teams had to work more than their share of overtime. Arizona edged Bradley 85-83 in three overtimes, and Wittenberg, the ninth - ranked small-college team, outlasted Denison 64-60 in four overtimes.

A brief flurry of flying fists completed the Arizona-Bradley affair, won on Al Johnson's two free throws. Johnson scored six free throws altogether in the overtimes.

Rookie's Name Sure To Be Misspelled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Franciaco Giants signed a rookie today whose name will be misspelled.

Jhonny Richards of the Dominican Republic signs his name with the "h" before the "o", which creates a situation certain to befuddle.

From the Dominican Republic which furnished Juan Marichal and the Alou brothers to the Giants, infielder Richards hasn't yet played organized baseball in the United States.

Golf Queen Mickey Wright Just About Out of Goals

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Mickey Wright said a little wistfully. "I wish I had wanted something else as badly as golf so I might have something I liked to do when I finish my career."

Mary Kathryn (Mickey) Wright, the greatest woman golfer, has just about run out of goals.

She figures that in a couple of years she will have reached that point where there is no place to go in golf, and she would like something that could take its place.

Mickey has accomplished everything important in golf — won more tournaments, 63; more money, $177,000; most tournaments in a year, 13; most money in a year, $31,700; the lowest round, 62; lowest stroke average, 72.46.

The only record that's left is to lead the money-winners five years in a row. She now is tied at four with the late Babe Zaharias. Mickey should get that record this year, although it is not necessary before she hangs up her clubs.

So, how much longer does she plan to play the tour?

"I think it'll be about two years," she said at her attractive apartment here where she spends the three months away from golf each year. She does her own cooking, is mighty good at it.

"I am trying to decide what I'll do when I retire ('retire' doesn't sound just right for a woman who's only 29 ) and I have three things in mind — clinical psychology, the stock market or teaching golf."

The tall, husky blonde who can drive a golf ball 400 yards is so dedicated to the game that she passed up marriage in 1961.

"Sure, I loved the guy and I had a lot of regrets over giving him up, but I was at the age when you look at the practical side and romance doesn't blind you. A girl can't play golf and be a housewife, too. I wanted golf more than marriage."

Miss Wright has been playing the tour for 10 years and attained every goal she set for herself when she was 13. "All I wanted then was to be the greatest woman golfer in the world," she said.

She played her first at the age of 10½, when her father, Arthur Wright, a San Diego lawyer, got her interested in the sport.

"I was 5 feet 8 and weighed 140 pounds, was bigger than anybody in my class and had a slight inferiority complex," she said. "I wanted to be noticed for something besides my size. So I got into golf."

She won her first tournament at 13 and turned pro in 1954 at the age of 19.

She earns about $40,000 a year. "I could make more than $50,000 if I took all the opportunities offered me."

But she makes all the money she wants, has made wise investments and is well fixed financially and has nothing to worry about in the future "unless I lived too high."

Miss Wright watched Louise Suggs at a clinic in 1950 and was impressed by Miss Suggs' personality, control and bearing — "She was a lady."

"There is no excuse for being anything but a lady," said Miss Wright, who practices what she preaches.

Kentuckian Sets Pace in Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A small army of golfers fanned in four directions today with Frank Beard of Kentucky leading the procession into the second round of the 90-hole, $100,000 Bob Hope Classic.

The 25-year-old Louisville professional — you may recall his remarkable recovery from a sleeping sickness ailment that threatened his career in Mach last year — had a first round 66.

That was six strokes under par for the Bermuda Dunes Country Club, and Beard held a one-stroke lead starting out today.

Jerry Steelsmith and Stan Thirsk were tied at 67, and the 68 group included Bob Rosburg, Don January, Kermit Zarley, Chuck Courtney and Rod Funseth.

The ever-threatening figures of Arnold Palmer, in the 70 listing, Jack Nicklaus, 71, and Tony Lema, 72, were not far behind.

Also in the 70 bracket were the defending Classic champion Tommy Jacobs, and Bill Casper Jr. Casper has been the most consistent pro of them all, yet still not a winner, in the 1965 winter circuit.

Venturi Does OK After Surgery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Open golf champion Ken Venturi, recovering from surgery to correct faulty blood circulation in his hands, said Wednesday he hopes to be physically fit to compete in the $35,000 Pensacola Open in Florida on March 3-7.

Venturi, operated on Jan. 27 for inflammation of the arteries, said he will leave Thursday for Palm Springs, Calif. "to get out of the cold weather."

His personal Physican, Dr. Robert L. Woods of Los Angeles, will accompany him, Venturi said.

Surgeons took 27 stitches in Ken's back and left leg to relieve the artery inflammation. The stitches will come out next Tuesday, Venturi said.

3 Straight Victories Cheer White Pigeon

WHITE PIGEON, Mich. (AP) — Three consecutive victories by your high school basketball team may not seem anything to get excited about. But fans in this southwestern Michigan community are beginning to smile again for the first time in years.

The three triumphs have shattered White Pigeon High School's 62-game losing streak.

National Open golf champion Ken Venturi had the third best stroke average in 1964. For 104 rounds in 28 tournaments he averaged 70.952 strokes per round. Only Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper topped him.

WBA Wants Floyd In Elimination

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The World Boxing Association has proposed that Floyd Patterson meet the winner of the upcoming Ernie Terrell-Eddie Machen bout for its version of the heavyweight championship.

Tony Maceroni, chairman of the WBA's championship committee, wired the Patterson camp Wednesday night, asking if Patterson were willing to meet the winner within 90 days after the March 5 bout in Chicago.

Maceroni said the winner of the Terrell-Machen bout is committed to meet either Patterson or an opponent named by the WBA. He said Patterson earned the title shot with his Monday night victory over George Chuvalo.

Unusual Is Usual in Ohio Cage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was just one of those nights in Ohio college basketball where the unusual becomes usual.

For example:

—Dayton tied its scoring record while star Henry Finkel scored less.

—Wittenberg and Denison just couldn't find the basket so they went into overtime—four times.

—Otterbein's ace Don Carlos scored 49 points on only 26 shots.

It all began when the Dayton Flyers toppled weakened Xavier 112-81 and equalled the school scoring record set in 1961 against Seton Hall in Madison Square Garden.

Finkel, the nation's leading field goal shooter, played only 28 minutes, hit 8 of 10 from the field and scored just 17 points, about 9 below average. But while Xavier concentrated on home his teammates poured in the points, good enough for a new Dayton home court record. The old one was 109 points against Bowling Green in 1955.

At Springfield, Wittenberg and Denison struggled along to a 23-21 halftime score with the Tigers ahead. The game ended 43-43 and the overtimes began. Wittenberg broke the spell after four extra-play periods and won the Ohio Conference contest 64-60.

In another Ohio Conference battle, Otterbein defeated Capital 87-84 behind Don Carlos' 49 points, a new career and school individual scoring record.

Elsewhere in the Ohio Conference, Akron's Zips slipped by Mt. Union 68-65 and Ohio Wesleyan beat Marietta 94-83 in a game with 54 personal fouls.

In Mid-American Conference play, the Toledo Rockets snapped a five-game losing streak with a 91-86 win over Bowling Green. The victory left Toledo with a 1-3 conference mark and the Falcons with 3-4 in the MAC.

Another Mid-American team, Ohio University, took an easy one over intersectional foe San Francisco State 95-75.

Steubenville won in overtime from Muskingum 66-62 and Findlay walloped St. Francis of Indiana 121 to 86.

Arkansas '5' Moves into Leading Ten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas AMN is the lone new entry in this week's Associated Press small-college basketball poll. However, its seventh-place ranking may be short-lived.

Evansville continues to hold a commanding lead in the balloting while Central State of Ohio took over the runner-up position from High Point, N.C.

Arkansas AMN climbed to seventh on the strength of 116-112 victory over Grambling. However, AMN's 17-0 record was marred Monday night when it lost to Alcorn AM 108-75. The latest poll was based on games through last Saturday.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | Evansville (1t) | 158 |
| 2. | Central State | 118 |
| 3. | High Point | 84 |
| 4. | Fairmont, W. Va. | 73 |
| 5. | Gannon | 65 |
| 6. | Winston Salem | 39 |
| 7. | Arkansas AMN (1) | 38 |
| 8. | Phila. Textile | 34 |
| 9. | Wittenberg | 29 |
| 10. | Grambling 12-5 | 24 |

Taylor Sees Lowly Bucks As Spoilers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Fred Taylor says he expects Ohio State to play a spoiler's role in the homestretch run of the torrid Big Ten basketball race.

The Buckeyes, who have won or shared an unprecedented five straight conference titles, are firmly entrenched in the second division with only one victory in four starts.

Unhappy over the turn of events, Taylor shrugs off his team's poor showing.

"We'll hurt somebody before it's over . . . I'll tell you that."

The youthful mentor isn't taking any "wait 'till next year" attitude either.

"I think we may have turned the corner after the Minnesota game. The kids were just lifeless in that one."

The Gophers trounced the Bucks, 97-77, which later led to a closed-door huddle between Taylor and the players.

The Bucks will get numerous opportunities to back Taylor on his spoiler's role tag. They have road contests against Illinois, Michigan and Indiana and play Illinois, Iowa and Michigan at home. All four schools are contenders for the title.

Water Pollution Is Being Battled

By KEN MCCREARY
For THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Water pollution, in years gone by, was much like the weather —people talked about it, but nobody did anything about it.

That situation has changed—concern and resentment against contamination of valuable water sources is mounting across Ohio and most of the nation.

Actually, water pollution results primarily from our highly urbanized and industrial civilization. Leading causes of pollution are industrial wastes, improperly treated sewage, wastes from oil and gas well drilling, acids from strip-mining, agricultural wastes, and detergents which refuse to break down.

The control and elimination of water pollution is the basic responsibility of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, a five-member panel working with the state health department. This agency controls permits for the discharge of domestic and industrial wastes into streams and lakes.

Although it has never used it, the board has the power to fine offenders up to $500 per day.

Since the board came into being eight years ago, 216 new sewage treatment plants have been built and another 82 have been improved. Still, there are a number of municipalities and industries under investigation for unacceptable disposal of waste products.

Another state agency vitally concerned with pollution is the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

When the contamination results in the death of fish or wildlife, its experts move in. A year ago the division embarked on a stern program on pollution cases. Enforcement "detectives" move quickly to collect all possible evidence.

Wildlife boss Dale Whitesell firmly believes the effort has been successful, noting that in the past year 32 fish-killing pollution cases have been investigated. Of these, 23 have resulted in claims for the costs of the destroyed fish and aquatic life. So far four claims have been settled with total payments of $27,133.

The latest is for $60, received this week from the Columbus suburb of Reynoldsburg, in payment for fish killed by improperly treated sewage dumped from its disposal plant during an expansion project.

Whitesell notes that from 1947 to 1963 the division investigated 1,311 cases of pollution, 729 of them involving fish-kills. From all these only 44 damage claims were filed, with only 25 settled for a total of $52,137.

"In line with our responsibility, we intend to take action in every instance of pollution," Whitesell said. "If someone kills a single fish, and we can prove it, we're going to take action on it!"

The Wildlife Division has filed a claim for 28 cents against a farmer who allegedly allowed livestock area sewage to seep into a stream.

Also active in the pollution battle is the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission, an eight-state compact in which Ohio plays a major role. Its primary concern is the Ohio and its tributaries.

Even though the agencies have taken great strides there is much still to be done. Some recent key developments:

Within two months, regulations requiring disposal of salt brine wastes from oil and gas well drilling are expected to take effect. The oil "boom" in and around Morrow County has touched off numerous reports of pollution of water supplies and streams.

Last week, the U.S. Senate voted 68-8 with Ohio's senators joining the majority, to approve the Water Pollution Control Act setting up a national anti-pollution policy.

The city of Cleveland says it will spend over $12 million dollars during the next two years to improve its sewage disposal facilities. There are indications, though, that this may not satisfy the Pollution Control Board.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Each September for the past few years, some 30 new programs have had their television premieres on three major networks, taking the plce of an equal number which had quietly expired the previous spring.

There is every reason to believe that just about the same mortality rate will continue. Next fall's tentative schedules are expected to be made public in about two weeks and there are at least 19 programs which will be retired at season's end. Another 18 may — or may not —survive for another season.

At the moment, it looks as though there will be no tomorrow for NBC's "The Rogues," "Kentucky Jones," That Was the Week That Was," "Mr. Magoo," "Jack Paar Show" and "Suspense Theatre." On the dubious list are such programs as "Mr. Novak," the Alfred Hitchcock hour, "International Showtime," "The Man from U.N.C.L.E.," and even "The Jack Benny Show."

CBS, if rumors are accurate, expects to dispatch "Many Happy Returns," "The Joey Bishop Show," "The Cara Wlams Show," "Baileys of Balboa," "The Entertainers" and "On Broadway Tonight." It is looking dubiously at "The Doctors and the Nurses," "Slattery's People" and "Password."

"Wagon Train," "The Bing Crosby Show" "The Flintstones" and "Jonny Quest," most likely will depart from ABC's schedule. There may be no renewals for "Burke's Law," "Valentine's Day," "The Tycoon" and "The Jimmy Dean Show."

Death, of course, comes to most television entertainment shows from a single cause — low Nielsen ratings. Some programs with low Nielsens but other important qualities, notably involving prestige and image-making for the network, survive in spite of ratings.

All three networks have many candidates for replacements.

Recommended tonight: "Preview," ABC, 10-11 (Eastern Standard Time) Special program showing behind-the-scenes activity in preparing a Broadway play and making a motoin picture, with Douglas Fairbanks Jr. as host-narrator; "Perry Como Show," NBC, 10-11 — special from St. Louis with Danny Thomas and Shirley Jones as guest stars.

Tribe Studies Best Position For Colavito

CLEVELAND (AP) — Now that the Cleveland Indians have Rocky Colavito under contract for an estimated $50,000 to $55,000, manager Birdie Tebbetts can do some serious concentrating on the problem of where play the popular slugger.

To Colavito, declaring himself "happy to be back" after a five year absence from the lakefront stadium, it makes no difference where he plays.

Rocky is an outfielder by trade, although he had a brief fling at pitching when he was last in a Cleveland uniform, but he says he'll be happy to play first base if that's where Tebbetts wants him.

Colavito was traded away in 1960 by the then general manager, Frank Lane. That year Rocky signed for $35,000 after a heated battle over terms. He didn't sign until after the March 1 holdout date, and he left Cleveland before the season started.

He came out smiling after Wednesday's 90-minute meeting with Paul and declared himself "satisfied with my contract terms." Terms were not announced, but one report was raise over last year's contract that Rocky received a $3,000 with Kansas City, which has been estimated at $48,500 to $52,500.

Celtics Defeated On Own Floor

BOSTON (AP) — The proof has arrived at last. The Boston Celtics can be beaten — even on their own court.

The fired up Baltimore Bullets turned the trick Wednesday night, handing the Celtcis their second loss at home this season, 122-114. The loss snapped a string of 14 straight home-court victories for the defending National Basketball Association champions.

The victory moved Baltimore to within a half-game of the second-place St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division.

Boston's Eastern Division lead was cut to 10 games over second-place Cincinnati, which defeated Los Angeles 130-99

Lowest daily double payoff during Yonkers, N. Y., harness racing in 1964 was $8 last June 16 when horses returning $2.80 and $4.80 won the first two races.

Reporter Rides Navy Jet Over South China Sea

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

ABOARD USS Hancock, South China Sea (AP) — I sat sweating in the cockpit of an attack jet on the flight deck of this aircraft carrier off South Viet Nam. Radio voices crackled in my ear, the pilot waved, and suddenly a giant fist seemed to smash my body.

We were being catapulted off the carrier. The force of the launch flattened me against the seat. My eyeballs pressed back into my head. In just three seconds our 35-ton jet went from zero to more than 150 miles an hour in 160 feet.

Then we were arching away from the water and into the sky. At the controls was Lt.Cmdr. Norris Anderson, 37, of Omaha, Neb. Behind him was Aviation Electronician 1.C. James J. Dowaliby, 24, of Oxnard, Calif.

The two are part of Heavy Photographic Squadron 61, based in Guam. They are flying reconnaissance missions from this carrier for the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Although the two won't talk about it, other sources here said Anderson's crew is photographing Viet Cong sites all over South Viet Nam, particularly in the delta region south of Saigon. They also fly over Laos, the source said.

The third man usually is Lt. (J.G.) David R. Smith, 24, of Tacoma, Wash. On this particular flight he gave his seat to me.

Once away from the catapult — a device which statisticians say is powerful enough to throw a Cadillac over the Empire State Building — we shot north to where a destroyer was stationed to watch for submarines or enemy planes. After a low-level pass, Anderson banked sharply for another swing. The gravity-force was not noticeable until I attempted to lift my cameras. Each seemed to weigh 20 pounds.

Sitting in the nose of this jet is an unforgettable experience. There is little sound. The horizon tilts and in an instant clouds envelop the plane. Just as suddenly it is blue again.

A mechanical voice buzzed in our ears again, warning of an approaching jet tanker for a refueling maneuver.

The single-seat A4 jet, with jet fuel pods slung below it, eased up beside us then pulled ahead and unreeled its fuel hose.

As we slipped in behind the jet its slipstream began rocking our jet. We eased toward the flared end of the fuel line. With a slip bump we made the connection.

Voices crackled again and then we were free, curving away from the tanker at 25,000 feet. Far below, a nearly invisible speck on the water, plowed the USS Hancock.

Anderson tilted the nose over and the earth rushed toward us. Suddenly, as if on a string, our speed checked. Anderson explained these were dive brakes, perforated sections of steel that flare from the sides of the sky-warrior to slow its speed.

We swept by the carrier at a low angle, then began a long circle to enter the flight pattern. Other jet fighters were ahead and below us, making their final approach.

With flaps down, we screamed toward the carrier at 150 miles an hour while the ship continued to move away from under us at 30 miles an hour.

The pilot's target on the carrier is not the whole flight deck but just one little spot about 100 feet long where four arresting cables are strung.

The Hancock's deck, so small a few seconds ago, loomed menacing before us now. The edge of the deck rose to meet us, arresting cables flashed below, men and planes were a blur — then the tail hook grabbed.

I slammed forward against the heavy seat and shoulder harness. Despite my attempt, I could not hold my head up against the force and my chin was jammed down onto my chest. We were down.

Deck hands guided us out of the landing area. More jets were waiting to get down. Thirty seconds behind us another jet screeched to a bone-jarring halt.

It was an easy, routine flight for Anderson and Dowaliby. Their flight had taken them into range of the Viet Cong's antiaircraft weapons.

Along with Smith, the three have been flying together for 13 months and they work as a closely coordinated team. All the men are married. Their families lived in Guam, where they are normally stationed.

Business Briefs

Sales and earnings of Container Corporation of America climbed to record levels in 1964, it was announced by Leo H. Schoenhofen, president and chief executive officer of the company which has a paperboard mill in Circleville.

Earnings in 1964 totaled $23,140,000, an all-time record, 21 per cent above the $19,125,000 earned in 1963 by the Chicago-based company which is the world's largest producer of paperboard packaging. After all charges, 1964 net income was $2.06 per share on the 11,119,92.. shares of common stock outstanding on December 31, 1964. This compares with 1963 net income of $1.71 per share on fewer shares outstanding at the end of last year.

Consolidated net sales reached an all time high of $390,575 000 in 1964, an increase of 9.5 per cent over 1963 sales of $356 814,000, marking the seventh consecutive year of sales growth. Gains were achieved in both oversear and domestic operations of the company, which has packaging facilities throughout the United States and in six nations of western Europe and Latin America.

The company's domestic paperboard mills produced 1,162,000 tons of paperboard in 1964.

If you're going to enter something like the Pure Oil Performance Trials, you might as well do it to win.

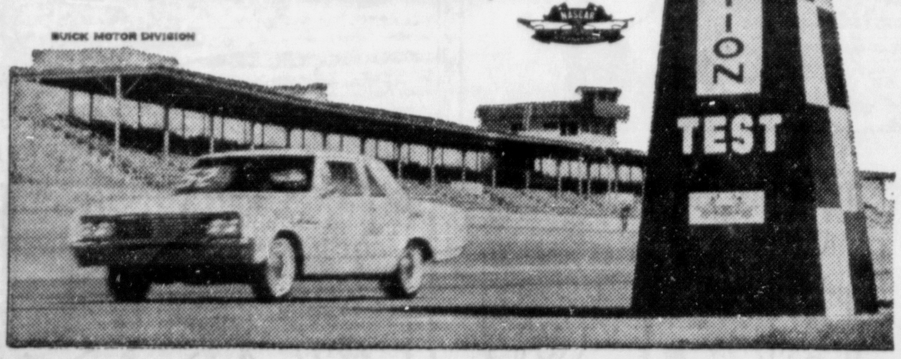
So we did. Class IV—won by Buick Special.

Down at Daytona Beach, we gave everyone another look at Buick's "Win Policy". A V-8 Buick Special won over stiff competition (sorry, boys!) in Class IV—in the 1965 Pure Oil Performance Trials. The winning Special was equipped with our 300 cubic inch Wildcat 310 V-8 and Super Turbine Transmission.

Remember that the drivers in the Performance Trials are skilled professionals, and the cars finely tuned standard production models. (If it can be said that the Special is "Standard" anything.) Also remember that the trials are an exhausting, carefully graded test of a car's all-around ability. In economy, acceleration and braking. Small wonder the Special came out on top. Handsomely.

(The specific detail? Our hero averaged 20.689 mpg in economy, to score second among 10 cars. It accomplished the acceleration test—from 25 to 70 mph—in 9.315 seconds, for a fifth. And took another second in braking: from 65 to 0 mph in 172.0 feet. The cumulative result: we won all the marbles in Class IV.)

Now then. If you're going to enter something—like a car—you might as well do it to win, too. Your Buick dealer can introduce you to the driver's seat of a Buick Special.



Wouldn't you really rather go first class?
